RESOLUTIONS

Resolution by economic organization presented at the Stuttgart International Socialist Congress jointly by the delegates of the S. L. P. and the delegates of the I. W. W., and adopted at the Twelfth National Convention of the S. L. P., July, 1906, as a declaration of the party's position on the trade union question:

Whereas, The integrity of the organized industrial organization of the working class by the present employers of the Commonwealth of Labor in various Republics and foresees the organic form of that Commonwealth, as well as its administrative powers;

Whereas, Craft Unionism, wherever capitalism has reached untrammeled height, has approved what the plutocratic "Wall Street Journal" of New York has hailed it in making the Gompers-impressed American Federation of Labor, the "bulwark of capitalist society," that bred the oligarchy which the capitalist Mark Hanna designated as his "Labor-Lieutenancship," therefore be it,

Resolved, 1. That "neutrality" toward Trades Unions, on the part of a political party of socialism, is equivalent to "neutrality toward the machinations of the capitalist class."
2. That the bona fide, or revolutionary Socialist Movement needs the political as well as the economic organization of Labor, the former for propaganda and warfare upon the combined plane of the ballot; the latter as the only conceivable force with which to back up the ballot, without which all ballot is moonshine, and which force is essential for the ultimate lock-out of the capitalist class.

3. That, without the political organization, the Labor or Socialist movement could not reach its triumph; without the economic, the day of its political triumph would be the day of its defeat. Without the economic organization, the movement would attract and breed the pure and simple politician, who would debauch and sell out the working class; without the political organization, the movement would attract and breed the agent provocateur, who would assassinate the movement.

Resolution on conduct during strikes, adopted at the Twelfth National Convention of the I. F. July 1906:

Resolved, That the Socialist Labor Party, while retaining its right to criticize and expose all wrongfully constructed and conducted labor or-organizations, and exercising its duty to do so, emphatically maintains its position that it is the duty of every member of the Party to stand on the side of the workmen whenever a bona fide strike or other conflict for improved conditions of labor occurs, either as a spontaneous action of the workers or as a result of action taken by any labor organization whatever.

APPENDIX

SOCIALIST LABOR PARTY PLATFORM
Adopted by the National Convention of the Party, April 10, 1912.

The Socialist Labor Party of the United States of America in National Convention assembled in New York on April 10th, 1912, reaffirming its previous platform pronouncements, and in accord with the International Socialist Movement, declares:

Social conditions, as illustrated by the events that crowded into the last four years, have ripened so fast that each and all the principles, doctrines proclaimed by the Socialist Labor Party, and all and each of the methods that the Socialist Labor Party has hitherto advocated, stand today most conspicuously demonstrated.

The Capitalist Social System has wrought its own destruction. Its leading exponents, the present incumbents in the Presidential Chair, and his "Illustrious Predecessor," however seemingly at war with each other on principles, cannot conceal the identity of their political views. The oligarchy proclaimed by the tenets of the one, the monarchy proclaimed be the treasurers of the other; boldly proclaim the conviction of the financiers was of the Ruling Class that the Republic of Capital is at the end of its tether.

True to the economic laws from which Socialism proceeds, dominant wealth has to such an extent permeated into the minds of a select few, the plutocracy, that the lower layers of the Class feel driven to the ragged edge; while the mere assertion of the people, the Working Class, are being submerged.

True to the sociologic laws, by the light of which Socialism reads its forecasts, the plutocracy is breaking through its reasonable, democratic shell and is stretching out its hands toward absolutism in government; the property-holding layers below it are turning at bay; the proletariat is subjugating its consciousness of class, and thereby to the perception of its historic mission.

In the midst of this battle, all the colors of the rainbow are better protected upon the social mists from the gonadal exodes of thought. From the lower layers of the Class the holder of the majority of the current of thought is a phenomenon of the colorless, as the colored, the colorless, as the phenomenon of the colorless.

The Trust, in this instance, demands that the Trust be smashed.

Even if the Trust could not be smashed; even if it should be ignored; the law of social progress would lead to a system of production that shall remove the efforts of men without remorse, with an abundance of the necessaries for material existence, in the end of allowing labor for sensual and spiritual expansion. The Trust is a mechanical constrictor, whether to solve the problem. To smash the constrictor was to remove the days of market for competition, and set back the hands of the clock of time. The mere thought of the Trust, though a fragmentary, is profound. He who understands the concept of wealth as we know it, with the result of what would happen to society should the Trust be smashed.

The trust held among the smaller property-holding element proposes to "crack the Trust with a variety of schemes. These vary forces of social revolution that under the development of capitalism, whether political or economic, as children. They are attempts to hold back a runaway horse by the tail. The laws by which the attempt has been tried have the path of the run-away. They are splintered to pieces with its blight, and serve only to furnish a livelihood for the Corporation and the Anti-Corporation lawyers.

From still lower layers of the same property-holding class, social layers that have united the breath of Socialism and imagine themselves Socialists, comes the treacherous theory of capturing the Trust for the people by the ballot only. The "capture of the Trust for the people" is the Social Revolution. To imply the Social Revolution with the ballot only, without the means to enforce the ballot's full, is like a beast's attempt to overcome it, in to fire blank cartridges at a foe. It is worse. It is to threaten his existence without the means to carry out the threat. Threats of revolution, without provisions to carry them out result in one of two things only—either the leaders are bought out, or the revolutionary class to which the leaders appeal and which they succeed in drawing after themselves are led like cattle to the slaughter. The Commune disaster of France stands a monument warning against the blunder.
of merging the workers of all industries into one interdependent solid mass, the final break-up is rendered inevitable and at hand.

The old scheme and no rainbow-chasing will appear in the approaching emergency. The Political Party knows this—and no doubt the Socialist Labor Party—logical is its program of each.

The program of the Political Party is based on the constitution of the Workers' Party, translated into Revolution. Where a Social Revolution is pending, and, for whatever reason, is not enforced, REALIZATION is the alternative.

The program of the Socialist Labor Party is Realization—the Industrial or Socialist Republic, the Social Order where the Political State is overthrown; where the Congress of the Land consists of the representatives of the useful occupations of the land; where, accordingly, a government is an essential factor in production, where the blessings to man that the trust is instinct with are bestowed upon the trampants of the private ownership that now turn the potential blessings into a curse; where, accordingly, abundance can be the privilege of all who work, and the shackles of wage slavery are no more.

In keeping with the goals of the different programs are the means of their execution. The means in contemplation by REACTIONS is the boycott. To this end REACTIONS is seeking, by means of the police spy and other agencies, to burst the proletarians into acts of violence that may give a color to the resort to the boycott. By its maneuvering, it is seeking the Workers' Class to be divided by its bloody and senseless pretexts. The capitalist press echoes the policy, while the poor and simple political Socialist Party press, generally, is snared into the trap.

On the contrary, the means firmly adhered to by the Socialist Labor Party is the constitutional method of political action, backed by the industrially and class-conscious organized proletariat, to the exclusion of Anarchy, and all that thereby hangs.

At such a critical period in the nation's existence the Socialist Labor Party calls upon the Working Class of America, in more deliberately serious fashion than ever before, to rally at the polls under the Party's banner. And the Party also calls upon all intelligent citizens to place themselves squarely upon the ground of working-class interests, and join us in this mighty and noble work of human emanagement, so that
